A message from Hospital and Foundation leadership

Since their inception, MemorialCare Long Beach Medical Center and MemorialCare Miller Children's & Women's Hospital have relied on the generous support of donors. Philanthropy is important to our ability to provide the compassionate care the community has grown to trust.

Your support bolsters the life-saving work of our exceptional physicians and healthcare staff. Their commitment to the well-being and future of our community is strong and enduring, not only day to day, but especially during the COVID-19 pandemic. We are proud of their selfless work, which has left a lasting impact on each of them as well as the community.

The pandemic highlighted the importance of strong healthcare organizations in our community and the need for us to perpetually evolve and stay vigilant. Your support helps us attract world-class talent, provide the latest in technology and clinical support, and care for the whole patient with compassion.

We hope that you appreciate the brief snapshot of our hospitals in 2022. It is a small way for us to say thank you for investing in our efforts of uplifting the health and well-being of our communities. You are making a difference.

Sincerely,

Elevating the health and well-being of our communities by ...

Investing in our exceptional people

Your gifts help Long Beach Medical Center and Miller Children's & Women's Hospital aggressively recruit leading physicians and invest in their consistent excellence through robust continuing education programs. We also work to develop the next generation of nurses and clinicians while helping our current caregivers evolve their skills through ongoing training.

Investing in extraordinary care

Innovation and technology continue to revolutionize the healthcare industry, which is why we invest in the most advanced, leading-edge diagnostic and treatment options for our patients. Our physicians and clinicians are active researchers, not only keeping us abreast of the latest evolutions in care but also creating them, bringing new levels of vitality to our award-winning specialties and institutes.

Investing in patients

Patient-centered care goes beyond access to award-winning doctors and advanced technology – it also includes education, psychological and social support, and empowerment to navigate acute illnesses and injuries, recover, and sustain comprehensive wellness. These efforts reach beyond the walls of our hospitals and into our community to address social determinants of health. What makes these efforts so vital is the fact that approximately two-thirds of our patients are on Medi-Cal or Medicaid, an exceptionally high percentage.

Removing barriers to care

Last year, MemorialCare expanded its virtual care capabilities by providing 24/7 video visits so that our patients receive quality care when and where they need it. Our navigation center helps patients schedule appointments and answer questions. Additionally, the myChart app allows patients to see lab results, communicate with providers, request prescription refills and more all on their phones.

Research

We are committed to sustained investment in clinical research.

The research programs at Miller Children’s & Women’s Hospital and Long Beach Medical Center allow access to clinical trials and novel investigations, which contribute to overall public health – effectively safeguarding the community, improving outcomes and lowering costs for patients.

Our projects include clinical trials in cardiology, cancer, maternity care, women’s health, pediatric specialty care and more. This program fosters a culture of innovation and continuous learning, keeping us on the leading edge of providing extraordinary care.

Teaching

As a professional teaching hospital accredited by the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education, our hospitals play a vital role in cultivating the next generation of healthcare professionals. Partnering with the region’s most prestigious universities and medical schools, we oversee 33 programs for residents and fellows, students and visiting professors.

We are also launching a partnership with California State University, Long Beach, (CSULB) to establish a teaching clinic on their campus to provide care for their campus and the surrounding community, as well as learning opportunities for students in nursing and other clinical areas.

Patient impact

Your support, coupled with exceptional physicians and clinicians providing extraordinary care supported by dedicated staff and administrators, makes a real difference in the lives of our patients. Here are a few examples.

Rodney Makes a Miraculous Recovery After Hand Surgery

Eleven-year-old Rodney was cutting into a watermelon at home for a snack for him and his sister. Rodney ended up playing with the knife and the watermelon rind, and unfortunately, the knife slipped, severely damaging all four fingers of his right hand.

Anna Acosta, M.D., a pediatric hand and upper extremity specialist, was consulted to determine the best surgical option to repair his hand. Rodney's injury was a Zone II Flexor Tendon Injury, and Dr. Acosta performed a complex, multi-digit procedure to repair the flexor tendons, which very few surgeons are specialized enough to perform.

"When he went in for surgery, he was more nervous about not being able to use his hand instead of the surgery itself," Rodney's mother said. "Dr. Acosta really did so much to reassure us that the surgery would be a success and Rodney would be able to use his hand again."

Surgery alone wouldn't give Rodney the full function of his hand. He would need months of rehabilitation sessions. The occupational therapy team at Miller Children's & Women's Hospital, who specializes in hand therapy, developed a recovery plan that led Rodney back to the things he loves, like basketball and playing the trumpet.

Angels Baseball Players Steal Hearts Rather Than Bases at Miller Children's & Women's Hospital

The Cherese Mari Lauhere Child Life Program at Miller Children's & Women's Hospital coordinates special events to help make the hospital experience more positive for children, and with the help of the Los Angeles Angels, the program coordinated a very special visit.

Angels players David Fletcher, Jared Walsh, Luis Rengifo and Jo Adell made their way around the hospital to surprise patients in the playrooms and at their bedsides, giving them autographed baseball hats, soft baseballs and plush Angels rally monkeys to help them feel more comfortable.

While giving gifts, players encouraged the patients they met, reassuring them of how strong they were while undergoing treatment. Cooper, a pediatric patient, was extremely excited to see the players, talking to them about their recent performances and giving them tips for upcoming games.

"This really means so much to me as a parent," said Erin Cannon, Cooper's mother. "Seeing these players take the time out of their busy schedules in between games to visit the patients of the hospital is such a privilege. The best part of this visit is being able to see my son happy during his stay at Miller Children's & Women's Hospital."

No One Puts Kristi in a Corner

Kristi Walker had been having knee pain for years. She had some trouble with her first surgery and was hesitant when it was time for the next knee. But one physician and new technology gave her a second chance at Long Beach Medical Center.
